New Inventions Make Life Easier and At Same Time More Complicated For Everyone

By HARMON W. NICHOLS
 United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 26 (UP)—This is the age, and apparently the season, for odd gadgets which make life easier and at the same time more complicated.

In Schenectady, N. Y., an inventor has come up with an electric eye that can "see" 1,000 feet. Right through the wind and the rain and the snow.

The engineer who thought it up wasn't trying to be cute or to be looked at as a man with three eyes. He was a dead serious general electrical scientist. The eye—which can see farther than previous electric eyes—will be used to count cars on crowded highways or to smoke out racists. The beam is broken by an object, thus setting off—like the case of the scallywag—enough alarms to bring the gen-garment on the double.

Speaking of inventors, science is going to miss Dr. William Kearsley—the famed gadget man—who retired a short time ago. Where would we be if it not for the good doctor and his "Cat Sorter" and, his sweet warmer for chilly ones? Not to mention his false nose on which razor blades are tested. The cat sorter, I think, was his greatest contribution to suffering mankind. It was another of those electric eye businesses. His own cat happened to be a black beauty. The puns had his private entrance into the Kearsley cellar. But the inventor got tired of big Tom's habit of bringing a lot of eline friends in with him at all hours to share his fish and milk. So he rigged up the eye which wouldn't open the door for anything but a black cat.

Old Tom was an unhappy beast for a long time, but he finally solved the riddle. And pretty soon the scientist discovered Tom was rattling a large circle of black friends.

Dr. Kearsley's only observation was that, by golly, he had pretty smart cat. Ought to be in pictures, maybe. On the same subject but a little more practical: Henry W. Hapman of Detroit has patented a massage apparatus. It's a vibrator with a mechanical "rocking motion." All you have to do is put your mug against a rubber sac. There's a hole for the nose so you can breathe and look like a beacon at the same time. Just turn 'er on, bub, and get massaged.

P. J. Gromley of Frankfort, Ky., is a heavy standee of long standing. He got tired of his lot and invented a "quiltcase" suit. It's a shirt and night-shirt case with a seat built in—kind of tied on the side of the bag. Gromley says it's for use "when desired," like on crowded trains.

Fred C. Booth of Charlotte, N. C., has a one-handed egg beater which he's about to put on the market. Booth is a little coy about explaining how the thing beats, but he says it beats anything invented along that line up to now.

Given a body a free hand to be doing something else at the same time.

Of the eligible still in training among the 109 originally nominated for the Tosses run. Reilly all have been driven to cover by Calumet Farm's onerous beast, Citation and Cowltown. Thus the 74th derby may have the fewest starters since Gallahedian beat seven rivals in 1940 or Old Rosebud whipped six others in 1914.

No matter how many go to the post, the Calumet comes were seen as sure to be even-money odds-on choices.

Those "certains" to oppose this pair are William L. Brann's Escaduro and R. W. McIlvaine's Billings, both of them already on the scene at Churchill Downs and C. V. Whitney's My Request, winner of the historic Wood Memorial at Jamaica last Saturday.

In the class of "probable" starters are Mr. John Payson Adams Grandpère and C. A. O'Neill, Jr., Galileo, both now training in the Blue Grass country. "Another trio must be listed only as 'possible' starters—Joseph M. Reubling's Macbeth, which may be J. B. Camden, N. J., the same car in why. My Request will ship from Mount Marcy, C. V. Whitney's Mount Marcy, the surprise second of the wood; and Robert J. Kleberg's Better Self, Trainer Max Hirsch is reported against the shipping of Better Self to the Downs, but he may be over-riden by Kleberg.

The Wood did much to "household" the entry list. Better Self proved a disappointment and so did Kilroy.

Meanwhile the day draws nearer when the owners will have to plunk down $1,000 to keep their horses in nomination. That stiff

Ex-Service Men's News

The number of World War II veterans taking on farm training and related class room instructions in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky reached a new high of 20,972 on April 1, Veterans Administration tri-state branch office in Columbus, O., reported today.

The total represented an increase of 2,692 trainees during March, including veterans training under the G. I. Bill for the non-disabled and the Vocational Rehabilitation Act for the disabled.

The April 1 totals by states were: Ohio, 7,710, increase of 1,445; Michigan, 10,439, increase of 206; Kentucky, 11,842, increase of 981.

The on-farm training program is divided into two phases self-proprietorship and employer-trainee. Self-proprietorship training is for veterans who own, rent or lease the farms on which they reside, this group comprises nearly 90 per cent of the total in training.

The employer-trainee programs enables veterans to receive training on the farms of experienced and successful farm operators.

Veterans Administration Branch Office in Columbus, O., today urged veterans in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky to use official VA premium mailing envelopes when paying G. I. insurance premiums by mail.

VA said use of the envelopes helps expedite handling of G. I. insurance payments since full information necessary to process the payment already is included by VA before the envelope is mailed to policy holders.

Veterans who pay G. I. insurance premiums by mail should make checks or money orders payable to the Treasurer of the United States.

If the official yellow VA premium and fee envelopes are not used, veterans should give their G. I. insurance policy number, service serial number and any other information to aid VA in making proper identification.

Q. I was injured after I was discharged from the Army. May I get out-patient treatment for the injury?

A. No. Veterans with non-service connected disabilities may not receive out-patient treatment from VA.

by WATKINS & WRIGHT

Loris Raymond is seeking a musical career in New York, but finds the going difficult, as does Carey Carson, young would-be architect. They become friends.

Another night away from home, old bachelor, who wants to help a worthy young couple by paying them to act as caretakers on his Long Island estate. Loris and Carey marry temporarily, on a strictly business basis, to get the job. They are hired and Peter leaves on a cruise, after introducing Iris Wrenshaw, beautiful and wealthy, who takes a fancy to Carey. Carey responds, but still resents a marriage proposal written Loris by a former suitor.

After winning an antique prize at a warlike night club, Carey and Loris are engaged on short notice to sing and play nightly at 724 a week, forcing them to cancel an invitation to Iris. Returning late to the estate from their successful debut, Loris is startled by a prowling figure.

NEW YORK, April 26. (UP)—

The American League must be happy today that little Joe Dimaggio, six-year-old son of the Yankee Clipper, doesn't travel the circuit with his old man.

That young man isn't satisfied with anything less than a home run. And when he's around big Joe usually complies. Like yesterday when big Joe belted one with two aboard in the first inning against the Red Sox.

"The kid ordered it," Joe shrugged. "What's a father to do?"

The young man did, indeed, order it. When the Yankees were taking batting practice he sat on the bench beside his famed father and listened attentively to talk about the way the crowd usually boos his pop at the plate.

"Jus' ignore 'em, pop," he said with a wisdom beyond his years. "Jus' concentrate on what you're doing."

The curly-haired youngster climbed on Joe's lap and kissed him on the neck.

"You're the best player in the whole world, Dad," he comforted, wrapping his arms around Joe's tanned neck.

Dimag sat there quiet and happy until the boy slipped down and said:

"You'd better go up and get your batting practice, Dad. You gotta hit your three-five this year."

The big outfielder grinned and asked: "Say, that's a lot to hit, isn't it?"

"Not for you," the kid came back quickly. "You're supposed to do it."

Dimag went into the cage and little Joe watched breathlessly. He frowned as Dimag rapped out what would have been three base hits. And then the old man cannoned one into the left field seats.

"That's it, Dad," the youngster chortled. "Oh boy."

Skipping outfield practice, big Joe returned to the bench and his son climbed on his lap again. They only see each other on week-ends when the Yanks are in New York so for each it was a big moment.

"I've gotta ask you something, Dad," the youngster said. "Two boys in my class just love baseball and they'd like your autograph."

Dimag winked down on him and replied:

"Sure, pal, we'll fix them up." That satisfied the youngster for a moment and he sat there quietly for a while. Then, as if it was an afterthought, he asked:

"And say, Pop, they wanta know whether you like a curve ball or a fast ball best?"

Dimag gave that a lot of thought. Then he replied patiently that they were both good to hit at—if he hit them.

Dom Dimaggio, Joe's brother with the Red Sox, ran across the field and little Joe waved, yelling shrilly: "Hello, Uncle Dom." Then he turned confidently to big Joe and asked:

"You're gonna beat him, ain'tcha Pop?"

As big Joe said later: "What's a father to do?"

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP

Hollywood (UP)—Maureen O'Hara, as dainty a pugilist as you'd hope to see, is doing the latest of the movies' big fight scenes. It's much against her will, though. She's not one of the fighting Irish.

"I don't like to pick on people," she said. "And those cat fights scare me. I got really hurt once."

Miss O'Hara has to beat up Gloria Grahame for a scene in RKO Radio's "The Long Denial." Her reluctance stemmed partly from the time she tangled with Lucille Ball in "Dance, Girl Dance."

The two red-heads threw themselves into their work so spiritedly that Maureen was hurled onto the lap of a nearby extra and both went down together; the extra's foot in Maureen's stomach.

"That made quite an impression on me," she shuddered. "It was an accident, of course, but just the same I don't like fights."

She's Good-Natured—"I never have scraped with anybody; I'm good-natured," she said. "I don't even fight with my husband."

In preparation for the fight with Miss Grahame, Miss O'Hara has done everything she can to render herself harmless. She's filed her sharp half-inch fingernails down to the quick. She's removed every ring except her wedding band.

"That never comes off," she said. "I cover it with flesh-colored tape when I'm doing a scene."

Director Nicholas Ray also is determined that neither girl shall wind up wounded, but he has to make the scene realistic.

"Our hair is loosely pinned so it will tumble when we start fighting," Miss O'Hara said. "And our clothes are only basted at the seams so they tear easily."

The girls light into each other, pummeling, scratching and swinging, in a struggle over a luger pistol. Before Miss O'Hara wrests it away, Miss Grahame is supposed to be shoot.

Mrs. Frank Nance Entertains Vet Village Bridge Club

The Vet Village Bridge Club met Friday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Frank Nance.

Prizes for high and low in bridge went to Mrs. Emil Meeker and Mrs. Sam Jones respectively; prizes for high and low in rummy to Mrs. K. T. Tidwell and Mrs. George Belk respectively.

Decorations were of spring flowers and the curtain tiebacks held small hearts, diamonds, spades and clubs.

The surprise of the evening was a birthday cake decorated with the card playing symbols and holding one candle for Mrs. Sam Jones whose birthday was on Friday.

Those present were Mesdames Ted Coi, Jack Haines, Emil Meeker, James Armbruster, Earl Givens, Sam Jones, K. T. Tidwell, Milton Brown Jr., Robert Underwood, George Belk, Troy Glidewell and the hostess.

Woman's Missionary Union To Meet At Gilbertsville

The Woman's Missionary Union of the Blood River Association will meet at the Gilbertsville Baptist Church Thursday, April 29 for an all day meeting.

An interesting program has been planned. The morning session will be a mission study institute and a business session will be held in the afternoon.

All members are urged to attend and visitors are welcome.

Girls More Carefree Thanks To 2-Way Help

What do you do for woman's oldest problem, functional monthly pain? Many a girl and woman has found the answer in CARDUI 2-way help. You see, CARDUI may make things less easier for you in either of two ways: (1) started 3 days before "your time" and taken as directed on the label, it should help relieve functional periodic pain; (2) taken throughout the month like a tonic, it should improve your appetite, aid digestion, and thus help build up resistance for the trying days to come. CARDUI is scientifically prepared and scientifically tested. If you suffer "at those certain times", get CARDUI today.

Eastside Homemakers Meet Wednesday With Mrs. Hillard Rogers

The Eastside Homemakers Club met Thursday, April 21, in the home of Mrs. Hillard Rogers on Hazel Highway.

The morning session was devoted to a Stanley party, sponsored by the club as a means of making money for the club.

A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed at the noon hour. The afternoon session was opened with a devotional given by Mrs. James R. Lassiter. Roll call was answered by naming some evidence of God at this time of the year.

Mrs. J. D. Wall, chairman, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Hunter Love, treasurer, stated the club had $39.48 on hand.

Mrs. Pat Hackett, hospital chairman, made a report. The club decided to contribute something for the hospital next month.

Mrs. Wall read a letter from Miss Rowland, the county demonstrator, stating the Dress Review would be May 3rd. She also stated the District meeting would be at Fulton April 29.

The club voted to have a food sale May 8th. Mrs. Wall asked each member to contribute a dollar next month toward the upkeep of the County Rest Room.

The club voted to take a commission from the Stanley party instead of prizes. Mrs. Rogers conducted an auction sale, selling the hostess gifts from the Stanley party and contributed same to the club.

Mrs. Clifford Smith, vice chairman, introduced the visitors Mrs. Rosella Outland, Mrs. F. Faughn and Mrs. R. C. McIntosh. Mrs. Outland talked to the members on cancer and illustrated her remarks with posters.

Mrs. Wall read a true and false test on Long Time Program Planning, compiled by Miss Galette, district leader from the University of Kentucky.

The major project lesson on salads was given by Mrs. Willy Cope. She illustrated the lesson by making two types of salads from raw vegetables and fruits.

Mrs. Alton Morgan asked for the May meeting.

A flower contest was conducted by Mrs. Rupert Lassiter.

The following members were present: Mesdames Willy Cope, Rupert Lassiter, Hunter Love, Thomas Parker, Eugene Shipley, Clifford Smith, J. D. Wall, Sam Adams, Colton Morgan, Leslie Gilbert, Polly Kelly, Pat Hackett, Allen Wells and the hostess.

Food Sale Planned May 8 By Eastside Homemakers Club

Eastside Homemakers Club will hold a "Food Sale" May 8th on the Courthouse lawn if weather permits. If inclement weather, the sale will be held in Diuguid's window.

There will be baked pies, cakes, dressed hens, fresh eggs and various other foods.

The proceeds of this sale will go toward the upkeep of the County Rest Room.

Barbara Rogers Is Married To Pat Evans

Mr. and Mrs. Novis Rogers, 155 North Park street, Akron, O. (formerly of Murray, Route 1) announce the marriage of their youngest daughter, Barbara to Pat Evans, son of Mrs. Trona Evans of Murray, Ky.

The single ring ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the Rev. T. W. Young in Corinth, Miss., on January 24.

Their only attendants were Miss Betty Gupton and W. A. Elkins.

Mrs. Evans chose for her wedding a blue two piece gown with brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink rose buds and baby breath.

Miss Gupton was attired in a pink frock with black accessories.

Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans are now home at 147 E. Grand Avenue, Highland Park, Mich.
